Useful information about dementia

If you are worried about your memory or someone else's memory the first thing to do is make an appointment with your GP. There are many reasons why someone may be showing signs similar to dementia, Dementia is not just about losing your memory. The word 'dementia' describes a set of symptoms that may include memory loss but can also affect the way you think, speak, perceive things, feel and behave.

Dementia is not a natural part of ageing. It doesn't just affect older people. Over 40,000 people under 65 in the UK have dementia.

Dementia is caused by diseases of the brain. There are many different types of dementia and everyone's dementia is different. Alzheimer's disease is the most common cause of dementia. The specific symptoms that someone with dementia experiences will depend on the parts of the brain that are damaged and the disease that is causing the dementia.

People can still live well with dementia. Although there is no cure for dementia, scientists and researchers are working hard to find one. People with dementia can continue to lead an active, purposeful life and carry on doing the things that matter to them most
